Douglas Fairbanks In His Master Production Of 'ROBIN HOOD'

"Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood" is a picture wherein the age of chivalry and romance, adventure and courage, is visualized for eyes of today; wherein eight hundred years have been spanned by the art of the photoplay; whereby the manners and customs of the Middle Ages are set clearly and historically accurate before a Twentieth Century public. It beckons you with its deeply human story of Robin Hood and sweet Maid Marian, Sherwood Forest and Nottingham Town, Friar Tuck and Little John — of the days when knights in armor fought with lance on armored steeds, and when hearts were won with cudgel, staff and broadsword.

Conference Teams Getting Into Shape

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Defensive tactics were prominent in conference workouts Monday, the majority of teams familiarizing themselves with the prospective play of coming opponents, with results highly gratifying to coaches of most of the teams.

Ohio State went through a round of defensive signal drill, a strong feature in the Ohio workouts for years. Minnesota vastly showed strength against the Ames plays used by the scrubs, holding them so well they failed to make a first down. Illinois freshmen went against the varsity with Nebraska plays, but did not accomplish much.

Iowa and Wisconsin continued their secret practice, while Purdue went through a heavy scrimmage schedule. Indiana's practice was devoted to punting and passing. Chicago freshmen held the regulars to one touch-down in practice game. Northwestern's best showed up well against the yearlings in scrimmages. Individual instruction was the keynote of the Michigan practice, (the Wolverine squad also working on defensive plays to use against Case Saturday.

Rev. West Safe In Tokyo

OAK HILL, Oct. 2.—The hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar West were relieved of a heavy burden when they received a letter from their son Ralph West, a missionary and teacher in Tokyo, Japan. Rev. West writes that he was going into a shop when the earthquake started and that falling tile, from the roof, made large piles around him. Rev. West has been in Japan a little over a year, and has had many experiences since reaching the land of the little yellow men.

Falls From Bridge; Drowns In Ohio

IRONTON, O., Oct. 3.—The second fatality on the Ironton-Bressler bridge occurred yesterday when Wm. Butterfield, aged about 23 years, of Flint, Mich., fell to his death while engaged with a crew of eight men in painting the structure. The body was recovered at 2 o'clock p. m., seven hours after death, by John Salyers, well known river man of this city. It was brought to shore and a coroner's verdict of "accidental drowning" rendered.

Purdy Reunion Is Success

A family reunion of Allen Purdy's children, grandchildren and great grandchildren was held Sunday September 30 at the old homestead three miles north of Sciotoville at what is known as the west end of the old covered bridge at Dixons Mills. Purdy was a full blooded Yankee, came from York state 145 years ago, and settled on the bank of Little Scioto. He was twice married, two children, a son and daughter blessed the first union.

His second wife was Hetta Birt. To this union eleven children were born, Aaron, Jess, William, Stephen, Ellen, Temperance, Bettsman, Abigail, Liza, Alice and Anna. All have passed on except Stephen, Eliza and Alice. Allen Purdy, was in his 95th year when he died. He was a republican. When he located in Scioto it wasn't very thickly settled and he had to depend on making what he needed mostly out of wood. Around 110 years ago he built and operated a distillery on the ground where the reunion was held Sunday. About 300 yards away from his stillhouse was a fine spring of water which he piped to his distillery thru wooden poles. He bored holes lengthwise thru poplar poles 12 feet long and joined them together. When the "pipe" would get stopped up, a large crawfish was entered at the spring end and he would clean the "pipe line." That course was easier than to take up the poles and clean them. The farmers would trade him a bushel of yellow corn for one gallon of corn whiskey. He would get 3 gallon out of a bushel of yellow corn, and only 2 gallon out of a bushel of white corn. That was about the time when the farmer went to the mill, with a rock in one end of the sack and corn in the other. The rock was to hold the corn on the boss.

Liza, daughter of Minford, Alice Jenkins of Sciotoville and Stephen Purdy of the old homestead are left of Allen Purdy's children.

The balance present included grandchildren and great grandchildren as follows:

George Jenkins and wife and daughter Merle; Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Purdy; Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Purdy and daughter Pauline; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Purdy; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Purdy and son Elmo; Mr. and Mrs. James Weeks; Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Williams and daughter Ruth and son Elmo; Mrs. Hattie Jenkins; Mrs. Adeline Munn; Mr. and Mrs. Son Myers; Mrs. Lutz Sampson and children; Mr. and Mrs. James Tolson; Mr. and Mrs. Porter Weeks; Mr. and J. L. Lewis and family, Homer, Garnett and Opal; Miss Lucille Harp; Paul Platt; Mrs. John Bonzo; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett; George Purdy.

Blackburn Recovers

Charles, young son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Blackburn, of Mt. Joy, has almost entirely recovered from the effects of the serious gun shot wound which he received last June and is now able to attend school. The lad accidentally shot himself while out with a shot gun killing crows and for weeks his life was despaired of.

Notice is hereby given that there will be no hunting permitted on my land. Any trespassers will be prosecuted.

Trooper, Who Worked On Noted Murder Is Reported As Missing

TRENTON, N. J., October 3.—State Police Trooper P. L. Dickman, who for a year worked on the unsolved mystery surrounding the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and his parishioner, Mrs. Eleanor Myles, in New Brunswick, is missing. It became known today.

Col. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of the state police, has heard no word from him since June and he was automatically dropped from the force upon expiration of his enlistment, September 1. His pay checks remain unclaimed. It was learned that Dickman had been kept on the unsolved murder case months after other state troopers were withdrawn and until the end of June made weekly reports to headquarters at the state house. He made trips to several eastern cities to question witnesses. Suddenly the reports ceased coming in. When last heard from he was in Canada.

Howard Fined

Offie Howard, of Walnut street, charged with two separate offenses in Municipal court yesterday, pleaded guilty to possession of liquor and was fined $100. He was also found guilty of driving while intoxicated for which a fine of $25 and costs was assessed, in addition to five days in jail. The jail sentence was later suspended when he arranged to pay.

WORK STOPPED; MORE FUNDS ARE NEEDED

Work on the New Boston M. E. church has stopped for lack of funds. More than $3000 have been spent on the building to date, and the walls of the first story are up, and the concrete base of the second floor is finished. As soon as sufficient funds are available the second story will be put up. About $1800 have been subscribed but some of it is not payable for quite a while. The people have responded nobly to this project and some money is coming in every week, but it does not come in as rapidly as needed to keep the work going steadily. It is very desirable to keep working steadily so as to get the roof on before cold weather sets in.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—I am writing for a little advice. I am a girl of 17 and have been going with a boy for over a year. He has been good to me, but now he does not seem to care for me. I think more of him than any other boy. My parents like him and he seems to like me. Now, Dolly, should I go with him when he acts this way?

DOTTY.—Sure, it is all right to go with him occasionally if he asks you for a date, as you are too young to marry. I have been going with the other girl. So long as he does this, there is no danger of either of you eloping with him.

ALEXANDER, THE GREAT.—If you are able to support a wife, think it might be a good idea to marry the girl. Settle down and live happily ever afterwards. Unless you can make up your mind to do this, don't get married.

Dear Miss Dolly—This is my first time to write to you and I am writing to you in hopes that you can help me out. I will be very thankful to you. I am a strong boy, 15 years of age and weigh 122, and am 5 feet, 7 inches tall, and I would like to have steady work after school hours, and on Saturdays. I would prefer to work in a grocery. If you can help me get this kind of work I will be very much pleased and thankful. You may give my name and phone number to any who want it.

ROMEO.—So sorry I could not be at the place designated that Sunday night. I thought you would write again. Please do as I was disappointed as I wanted to see you. Don't you ever come to town? Better luck next time.

JULIET.—THANK YOU—Put the olives in a dish and eat them with the fingers. They would roll all over the plate if you tried to cut them with a knife and fork. Ask your insurance agent about the policy. Want-ads are one cent and a half a word in The Daily Times, and one cent a word in The Morning Sun. We charge the same for the address as for the rest of the ad. You can get people to cut your face down, who make a business of doing that. If you want it cut, why kill it, as it will have to be taken out roots and all, dead or alive.

WORKER.—If I were you I would ask the girl for the money, before I would garnish her wages. Just tell her that you will have to do that if she doesn't pay you, or if you don't want to do it, you might get one of the other girls to tell her that you are going to do it, and perhaps she will get busy and pay you for the cost.

Mr. Charles Barnes of Wakefield was among the many old friends who attended the funeral of the late S. B. Timmings held Tuesday afternoon.

The following from Tuesday's Chillicothe Gazette will be read with interest, as the bride and her parents were former residents of this city and have many relatives and friends here.

A very pretty wedding was that solemnized at 7:30 Tuesday morning at St. Peter's church when Miss Anna Rusk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Rusk of Chicago street, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Rusk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rusk, of Arch street, nuptial high mass being celebrated by Father Krenskamp. The bride and groom had as their attendants Miss Margaret Pye of Portsmouth and Mr. John Ehrert, and two little flower girls, Clarabelle Spangler and Marjory Bohm.

"The church was a beautiful setting for the ceremony with its decorations of baskets of goldenrod and gladiolus and palms and ferns, and the bridal party formed a most attractive picture as they made their way up to the altar.

"First came the ushers, Charles Rusk, brother of the groom, and Clarence Rusk, the bride's brother, and they were followed by the little flower girls in dainty white organdy frocks, and carrying baskets of pink daisies which they strewed in the path of the bride. After them came the best man and the bridesmaid, followed by the bride and groom. Miss Pye wore a becoming frock of peach colored satin, with hat to match, and carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses.

"The bride looked very attractive in her wedding gown of white crystal satin bordered with pearl and crystal beads, with veil of tulle, caught with orange blossoms. She carried a beautiful shower bouquet of bride's roses.

"The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Theresa Burkley. Miss Burkley was also accompanist for Mrs. Albert Bandler who sang an "Ave Maria" by Marten during the offertory, and "Salutibus" by Matfield during the communion service. The children's choir sang the mass.

"A number of relatives and friends witnessed the ceremony, following which there was a wedding breakfast and reception at the Warner Hotel, at which about fifty guests were present. The bride's party and members of the immediate families were seated at one large table, while the other guests were seated at smaller tables about the room. Baskets of pink and white roses were used in decoration.

"Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Rusk left on a wedding trip through the eastern states, and on their return will reside in one of the Knacht flats on South Paint street.

"The bride has been employed in the office of her father, who is in charge of the Western Southern Life Insurance Company here, and her husband is engaged in farming, being in business with his father. Both young people have a wide circle of friends to wish them happiness.

"Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Miss Amy Phillips of Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Sommer, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Switalski and Mr. and Mrs. George Bender and daughter, Marceline, of Portsmouth; and the Misses Annabelle, Mark Guilfoyle and Eugene Guilfoyle and Mrs. James Kite of Cincinnati."

Miss Ernestine Harris has returned to her home in Ironton after a week-end visit with Miss Mary Stoune. Miss Stoune is preparing to leave soon for Mt. Vernon, Ohio, where she will take a course of treatment at a hospital there.

The Misses Anna and Blanche Doyle of Gallia street have returned from a brief visit with Miss Katherine Cloran in Ironton.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marquette have returned from a week-end visit with friends in Ironton.

Probably the largest tea ever given in the city will be the one given by the Executive Board of the Woman's City Club at the home of Mrs. Irving Drew on Friday afternoon, October 12th, honoring Judge Florence E. Allen, of the Ohio Supreme Court, who will come to Portsmouth to deliver an open lecture in the High School auditorium on the same evening. Judge Allen will arrive at noon and the tea will be held from 3:30 until 5:30 o'clock. At the women in Portsmouth and vicinity are cordially invited to attend this tea, and meet Judge Allen. They are also urged to attend the lecture at eight o'clock and hear the interesting message that she has to offer.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Gardner, Sr., have gone to their home in Kenton, W. Va., after a few days' visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Gardner, Jr., of Baird avenue. They were enroute from their summer home on Green Lake, near Benton, Michigan, where they spent the past month.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kessinger of Ninth street entertained with a delightful surprise party Monday evening for the pleasure of their nephew, Carlos King, who is home for a few days from the Aerial Service of the Army at Champe Field, Randolph, Illinois. The evening was spent in dancing and cards and at a later hour a dinner course was served by Mrs. Kessinger, assisted by Mrs. C. B. King and Mrs. William S. Pixer.

Those present were the Misses Darline Semones, Helen Smith, Jean Slump, Estelle Corwin, Evelyn Voelker, Jessie Horlen, Eva Rhoden, Vernice Lutzler, Edith Crabtree, Bernadine Harpiss, Thelma Payne, Agnes Yates and Jeanette Smith. THE SQUEALY-MOO CONCERT

"I've got the finest voice in Squealy-Moo Land and I dare anybody to say I haven't."

"Quack, quack, quack" went Misses Wack, Wack, Wack.

"Quack, quack, quack" went her six children. "Quack, quack, quack" went Misses Wack, Wack, Wack.

"Gobble, gobble, gobble" went Mister Turkeys, Mr. and Mrs. Gobble, peep, peep, gobble, went all the turkeys, big and little.

"Moo" called out Misses Cow, lifting her head and her voice. "Moo" echoed Crazy Cal in his funny short way.

"Oink, oink, oink" went all the pigs, looking through the barnyard fence of the Knacht flats on South Paint street.

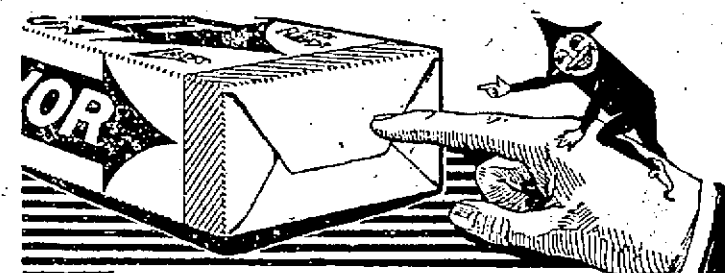

"Honk, honk, honk" hissed the geese. "Ma" went Billy Goat. "Baa" went Snippet Sheep and all the other sheep in the field said "Baa" just to keep company.

"My goodness!" laughed Nancy. "It sounds as though Squealy-Moo Land was giving a concert."

"I think it is," said Mister Dodger solemnly. "Each one has a very good voice, too."

But suddenly a dreadful sound split the air. It was simply awful. It was so loud that the twins clapped their hands over their ears and Mister Dodger made a wry face.

"Hee, haw! Hee, haw!" it went

Sallie Ann SAYS

This week the assortment of "Monterey" hats received by The Fashion is in the loveliest of all blues, the Copenhagen which has been combined with silver metallic trimmings or other bright trimmings of variegated colors, to make this week's showing one that must be particularly popular.

This assortment of hats is evidence of a particularly thorough knowledge of how to emphasize what is best in each type of face, and how to properly frame every style coiffure.

For instance, for the bobbed head, there are lovely little pokes-off-the-face hats with tiny visor brims—little rolled-brim hats—for the very flat coiffure there is the sleek hat with tiny brim—for the elaborate coiffure, there is the off-the-face hat, high in front—and for the round, youthful face, there is the flattering mushroom—for the maid of tiny features the hat with the scalloped off-the-

All of the hats are made of soft Lyons velvet, trimmed with metallic cloth bows of moire ribbon, unusual hand embroidery, or the always smart ostrich. And they sell for only $5.98.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES - IN THE OLDEN CASTLE

Jack watched the old man as he crossed the great room, and then, as the clanking died out and the old man disappeared, the little adventurer crawled from beneath the chair. "That's Clanker, the watchman," explained Jingo. "Always hide when you hear him coming your way."

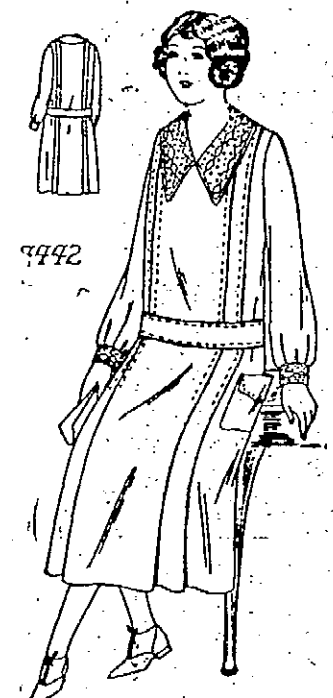

"Why should I hide from him?" asked Jack. "Well, if you want to see this castle, you'll have to do as I say. If Clanker finds you, he will put you out of here. The King Bughaw's watchman and none is allowed in this castle while the king is away on his hunting trips."

"When will the king return?" asked Jack. "Oh, not until late tonight," replied Jingo. "And in the meantime, if you avoid Clanker, you can go through the castle and see the wonderful things in it." And Jingo led the way to the room of iron men. (Continued.)

Like Looking at the Sun

Looking into one of the huge rotary kilns where the raw materials for cement are burned into clinker is just like looking at the noonday sun.

The terrific heat required makes a glare of light so intense that the glowing flame would temporarily blind you.

But borrow the workman's colored goggles to protect your eyes while you take another look into the kiln. Then you will see a tornado of powdered coal—or gas or spraying oil—bursting into a sheet of sun-white flame.

Into the other end of the kiln flow the powdered limestone and shale [clay]—the raw materials for cement.

As the slowly revolving kiln tumbles the materials about, they are subjected to gradually increasing heat. During their three-hour journey through this inferno, moisture and gases are first given off. Finally as the powdered materials reach the sun-white flame, they half melt into glass-hard balls called "clinker." This clinker, an entirely new chemical compound, when finely powdered is portland cement.

Portland cement kilns consume great quantities of fuel—30 pounds of coal or its equivalent for each 94-pound sack of cement. For the whole cement making process the consumption of coal is approximately 50 pounds a sack—more than half a ton of coal to a ton of cement.

Packet Co. In Hands Of Receiver

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3.—Several Cincinnatians are said to be among the creditors of the Liberty Line, a steamboat packet company, which according to a dispatch from Cincinnati, Ohio, has gone into receivership.

A special from Gallipolis says: The Liberty Transit Company, operating between Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, announced that it will suspend further service between the two cities until after a meeting of the stockholders of the company. The company went into the hands of a receiver several days ago, and as a result the steamers General Wood and General Crowder have been tied up at Wheeling awaiting further orders. H. P. Lytle, local freight and passenger agent, expressed the belief that in case of the Liberty Transit Company suspends the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati trade entirely, a new company probably will be organized to ply boats between the two cities.

Both passenger and freight traffic to up-river points is such as to encourage the continuance of the company. The Dollar Savings and Trust Company, Wheeling, W. Va., was appointed receiver for the company.

Confessions of a Rum Runner, Member of Smuggler's Crew

Protected Cargoes Met By Dishonest Revenue Agents And The Launch Conveyed To Wharf Where Trucks Are Waiting — Bribes Raise The Price Of Booze

The "rum-running" vessels which hang outside the three-mile limit, selling liquor to be smuggled into this country, have received world-wide attention, but so far little has been told from the inside of their actual operations.

The World, in conjunction with the Manchester Guardian, is now able to give the complete narrative of a member of the crew of a ship engaged in this trade for five months off the American coast. Today is the fourth installment of a series of eight articles. The writer describes in detail the organization and methods by which the trade is carried on, the devices of the smugglers, life on board ship, the types of men who are their outside customers and the big men in the background.

The conditions of "Rum Row," where the ships are moored, the methods of the "pirates" who prey upon the rum ships, the adventures of the launches and tugs that bring the drink ashore are also related. The writer is a seaman of wide experience in the mercantile marine and The World and Manchester Guardian have proof of the authenticity of his narrative.

CHAPTER IV. PAYING FOR PROTECTION By One of the Crew.

We had three motor boats loading alongside one day; two were putting their whiskey into sacks on deck, the third was loading the cases, about 200; it was quite a big launch, and the man in charge of it was standing on top of his wheelhouse superintending the loading. He had his jacket wide open so that every one could see the Colt hanging from his belt.

It was my watch and I was standing with Bill on the tower bridge deck. Bill by this time had become quite friendly and communicative and used to tell me all about the customers with whom he was acquainted; and as he had been at the bootlegging business himself there were few of our customers he didn't know. We were discussing the man with the Colt. Bill didn't have any great opinion of him.

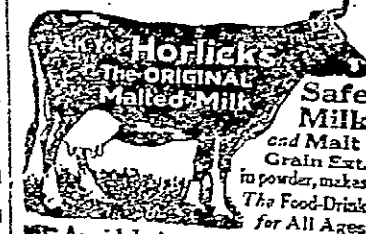

"He's real bad, that guy," he said, from his lid to his boots. He's plugged two men that I know of with that little pea shooter he picks, and I'll have to hand it to him that he's a dandy shot, but he's a—careful! whom he shoots and he always shoots where it don't hurt much. He hasn't the guts to carry a decent gun, an' if it came to a real fight he'd lie down. He's protected all through and would never take a chance."

Rum Running Made Easy.
"Tell me about protection, Bill," I asked.
"Well," Bill answered, "protection's the paying of dollars to Federal men and police. If ye pay enough they'll let ye alone. Ye don't suppose our tugs gets into New York for nothin, do ye?"

I had thought about this matter a good deal and wondered how it was done. Our tug was the one used by Mr. R. himself for carrying his stuff ashore, although he took good care never to be on board of it himself with a load.

She would load about 2,500 cases during the day, but always left us about 8 at night. I thought at first that she was waiting for darkness to run his stuff ashore; but Bill enlightened me on this matter and explained the inner workings of bootlegging.

Our tug would pass through the Narrows at a certain prearranged time and be met by a dishonest revenue boat that would see her safely to the wharf where motor trucks and a gang of men were all waiting to rush the stuff ashore. The tug's crew had to be paid, the dishonest Federal men had to be paid, the wharfing men had to be paid. So also had the policeman on duty at the wharf, the police near the store where the booze was kept before being distributed to the thirsty people who bought it from Mr. R. (Can Jumbo Shingles weigh approximately 310 pounds to the square. They are laid 5 inches to the weather with 1/2 inch spacing. This gives three thickness of shingles over the entire roof.

Jumbo Shingles are 10 inches wide by 15 1/2 inches long. They are 25 per cent thicker than the regular Standard Shingles. Jumbo Shingles are intended for fine homes, for which a roof is desired that will last as long as the house itself, and they will be as attractive as the roof of the finest home should be.

The Shingle that Never Curls
THE large size of these shingles gives a massive slab effect. Their extra thickness creates deeper shadows between the joints and at the butts, giving that pleasing contrast of light and dark so desirable in large roof surfaces.

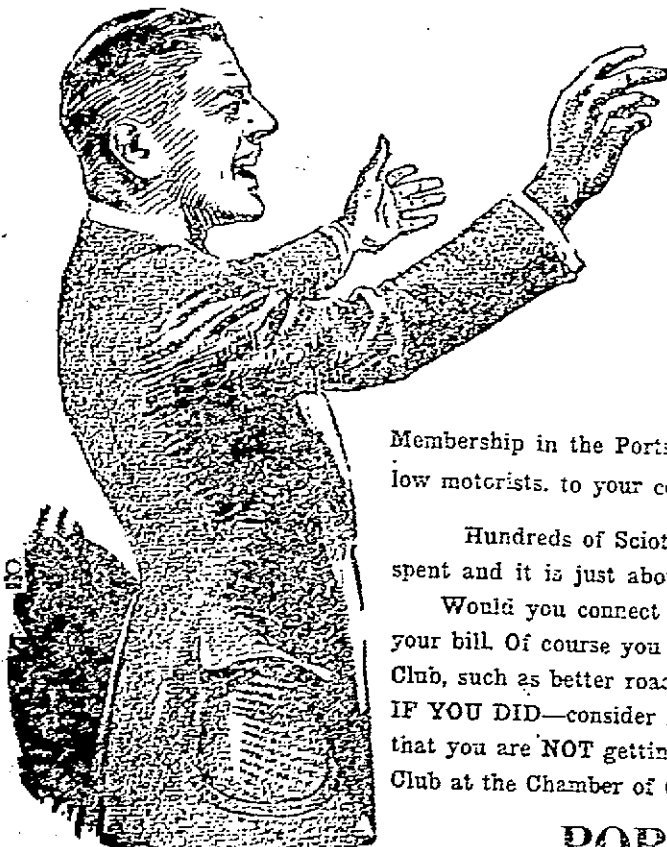

Jumbo Shingles are furnished with red, green, or blue-black crushed slate surfaces. They are spark-proof, enduring, fadeless, and will never curl.

ORIENT. BY BRENTANO'S - C. H. L. BY THE RIDGWAY COMPANY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Hope Ranger, daughter of Loving Ranger, disappeared after lunching at the Plaza with her friend, Lucia Thorne. A hundred-thousand-dollar reward is offered by Hope's father for the return of his daughter.

Eustice Higby, attorney and friend of Ranger, assists in the search. Jaurez Charlie, adventurer, and life-long friend of Ranger, comes with a message from Hope's father, telling her to leave at a specified place.

Charlie tells Loring that his daughter is in the hands of a group of criminals called the Combino. Frank Bryan is Ranger's private secretary. George Kelsey is detained at a private sanatorium.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was disappointing for Kelsey to find that he had only a stray sheet of a Sunday supplement or two or three weeks old, entirely taken up with the disappearance of a girl called Hope Ranger and illustrated with pictures of her reproduced from photographs, paintings and sketches.

The sense of some one being near him rather than the preception of an actual presence, roused him finally from his brown study.

A girl was standing a few feet away from him, regarding him steadily, her hands clasped before her.

The involuntary smile of recognition died on his lips as he stood up. He had thought at first—a resemblance only, but to whom? Where had he seen—recently? He grasped it. One of the nurses, Miss Copely. He had talked to her the day before.

He had now a swift impression of grace and charm, of a distinction which the nurse did not possess.

"Good morning," he broke the silence which was becoming awkward. "For a moment I thought you were Miss Copely."

"Did you?" she asked vaguely. Her voice confirmed the impression of charm. It was warm, faintly vibrating.

"Miss Copely is a nurse here," he explained. "She resembles you very much. I thought she might be your sister."

She came nearer him and sat down on the bench, motioning him to resume his seat.

"Are you a patient here, too?" Kelsey had an uncertain temper which he had taught himself to control; but at her question a flare of anger swept over his face, which slowly congealed to an icy expression.

"Am I a patient?" He had turned in his seat, and she saw that the flame still lingered in his hot blue eyes. There were white dents about the corners of his mouth; his voice was rough; the infections were satirical. "Well, that is as you look at it. I was house physician here for a few weeks. I resigned—for reasons. My resignation was accepted, and I picked my things and prepared to leave. I needed a car to take me to the station, as it was some distance. There were polite excuses—all the cars were in use. I started to walk, hoping I'd get a lift on the road, the gates were locked. I attempted to throw my bags over the wall and scramble after them. Two men closed in on me. I lost my head and struck out, but they were too much for me. Our superintendent had grown so fond of me, you see, that he couldn't bear to part. So he elevated me to the rank of patient. I am still here—for the present."

"That means—you intend to get away?" she leaned nearer him to whisper.

"I'm talking nonsense," he began stiffly; but she touched him lightly on the arm.

"Dr. Bristow is coming," she murmured. "Give me a pencil quick, and wait here. I will come back—if I can."

Wondering alike at the quick change in her manner and at the purpose of her request, he gave her the pencil, and she moved away to stand, looking back at him in her hands and looking vacantly before her.

The superintendent of the institution came striding across the lawn toward them.

As always, he was fastidiously dressed—a gray morning suit and a gray soft hat. The luster of a splendid black pearl shone in his massive necktie.

"Well, Miss Copely," he stopped before the girl and spoke in the sympathetic, slightly halting tone of a physician to a convalescent patient—"this is better than moping over rejected manuscripts, don't you think?"

She still stared before her.

"I gave me this pencil," she said, "and he wouldn't give me any more." She moved on droopingly toward the house.

"Good morning, Kelsey," Dr. Bristow's voice was low. It was said that he had never been heard to raise his voice above that modulated pitch. To do so was unnecessary; it was sufficiently authoritative without emphasis.

He had been making friends with Miss Copely, I saw.

"The remark was casual, but Kelsey divined undercurrents.

"Is that her name?" he asked uninterestedly. "I thought it might be Sisters."

The doctor's eyes were on him.

"Yes—a sad case. Hopeless, I fear. She wanted to be a writer. I have seen some of her manuscripts. Pretty bad."

"There was one fair story, though, of a little seamstress who fell in love with an actor's picture. He played Mercutio. That was one of your favorite parts, I believe."

"You're in one of your inventive moods today," Kelsey said insolently.

"Have you entirely forgotten the hit you made in that part?" Dr. Bristow now, as Kelsey expressed it to himself, baiting him for fair. "Can't you recall the duel scene where you stagger back into the arms of your supporters, the house still?"

"Is not so deep as a well, nor so wide as a church door, but 'twill serve. A plague of both your parts."

"That means—you intend to get away?" she leaned nearer him to whisper.

"I'm talking nonsense," he began stiffly; but she touched him lightly on the arm.

Father John's Medicine Keeps Them All Well

Mother Says They are Strong and Healthy Since Taking It.

The family medicine chest in a great many homes always contains Father John's Medicine because mothers have come to depend upon it to build strength for every member of the family. houses! Then the thunders of applause.

Kelsey was a little pale from his effort at self-control, his mouth was rigid.

"Who that had ever lived through such an inspiring experience could forget it?" he murmured with exaggerated enthusiasm.

"Good!" Bristow's tone was gratified. "You are coming along nicely, my dear boy."

With a pleasant nod, he turned away and stepped back to the drive where his car was waiting.

Kelsey's face was black as he looked after him. Lost in his resentment and sense of injury, he had forgotten the girl. It was with a start that he realized that she had come back and was waiting herself beside him.

"Give me some paper," she said impatiently.

Studying her, curious to see what she would say or do next, Kelsey took a notebook from his pocket and, tearing out a few sheets, handed them to her.

She began to write—words, half-words, dots, dashes, anything. Her head was bent over the paper. Any one watching her would have thought her absorbed in her task. But, while she wrote, she talked in a rapid undertone.

"You are an actor," she said accusingly. "I overheard some of the things he said to you. Perhaps you were only acting when you spoke of him to me?"

"I never was an actor," he interrupted harshly. "That's Bristow's little game. I am what I told you, George Kelsey, a physician who has specialized in mental diseases. But who are you?"

"That's more to the point just now. I made a snap diagnosis of you, when I saw you first, as a drug-addict—your pallor, your eyes. But they don't admit them here. Amnesia, then? That means your memory of past events is blotted out. Yet I don't believe, for all you say, that yours is even touched."

"You are an actor," she said accusingly. "I overheard some of the things he said to you. Perhaps you were only acting when you spoke of him to me?"

"I never was an actor," he interrupted harshly. "That's Bristow's little game. I am what I told you, George Kelsey, a physician who has specialized in mental diseases. But who are you?"

"That's more to the point just now. I made a snap diagnosis of you, when I saw you first, as a drug-addict—your pallor, your eyes. But they don't admit them here. Amnesia, then? That means your memory of past events is blotted out. Yet I don't believe, for all you say, that yours is even touched."

"You are an actor," she said accusingly. "I overheard some of the things he said to you. Perhaps you were only acting when you spoke of him to me?"

his lips as little as possible. "I came here as an assistant physician, and lived it. The place is splendidly run and up to date. An invaluable experience for me, for a head while anyway. Then one day—no need going into details now—I overheard a conversation between Bristow and a visitor. I didn't listen intentionally of course, but I was in such a position that I couldn't help it. This visitor was describing the theft of a lot of valuable jewels, and consulting Bristow about the best method of disposing of them. And Bristow made no bones about giving his assistance—on a fifty-fifty basis. He laid out a whole scheme, told the fellow what to do, giving the names of persons and places."

He paused, as if expecting her to question his statement.

"It doesn't surprise me a bit," she said, drawing in her breath sharply. He ended the conversation short, and sent the man away. He never turned a hair, I'll say that for him; he's great in an emergency. But his eyes, they went through me like a diamond drill."

a loss to the railroads of what they now have.

Mr. Silver made it clear that no special remedies could be devised by Congress at this time and that the cure for the situation already exists in the machinery of the government.

He declared, for instance, that if the government could bring down the cost of nitrate, it would immediately give the farmer help to keep the price of the fertilizer down.

He said that distinguished engineers had testified that Nitrates could be sold to the farmer for as little as five cents a pound, whereas the farmers were paying 18 and 20 cents and higher for Chilean fertilizer. But such cheap nitrates, he added, could come from effective operation of the Muscle Shoals plant and that the offer made by private concerns should be accepted or an alternative devised.

Mr. Silver said that his organization was well aware that a higher price for fertilizer would not be obtained by government subsidies, but that the American farmer could and would adjust himself to world conditions provided he could bring down the cost at home. He felt that the systems of intermediate credits which had been set up by Congress, together with order of preference, would help to keep the prices from fluctuating at home but that basically the biggest reform must come in the cost of production.

He believed that the farmer was quite willing to take his chances in the sale of his surplus abroad, provided the United States could get on the home market and this would be possible through cheaper nitrates, lower freight rates and orderly marketing.

Mr. Silver in reply to questions concerning the farmer's interest in European problems stated that farmers generally were anxious that the United States extend its influence so that markets abroad could be restored. He did not believe the farmers were isolationists, but would welcome co-operation with Europe.

After Mr. Silver left, Spencer Weymouth, editor of Farm Life, an Indian publication, who also came to the invitation of President Coolidge, told the Chief Executive that with the expectation of the wheat growing farmer, conditions in the agricultural world were not as bad as were painted. He was doubtful whether a higher tariff would do any good.

"Suppose," he said, "that a tariff is imposed and we restrict our acreage to home markets, and then along comes a Democratic administration or some other thing and the tariff is removed. Then Canada and the rest of the world not only can come in here and compete with us, but all the time the tariff is in effect the other wheat growing countries will be capturing the markets of the world."

Mr. Coolidge told some of his callers he was considering the proposition that the government buy wheat at a dollar and a half a bushel for export, but he did not indicate whether he would approve or reject it. Mr. Silver thought the War Finance Corporation had the power already to buy wheat from the American farmer and sell it to European countries, including Germany, and that it could buy up grain and securities.

"There are literally dozens of proposals before Mr. Coolidge, but the general tenor of all of them is that a special session of Congress will not help matters and that the Executive already has enough power to relieve the situation.

Are Two Cemetery Employees Being Paid Legally? Auditor Asks For Ruling

City Auditor J. Earl Chandler in a letter addressed to City Solicitor Sherrard M. Johnson yesterday asked for a ruling as to the legality of paying an increased wage to one of the employees at Greenlawn cemetery, and of paying the voucher of another employee who he claims was carried on the maintenance payroll of the cemetery as "E. J. Williams, utility man," when in fact, it is charged, the said E. J. Williams was a woman stenographer, doing clerical work for which another is being paid. The auditor also asks for an opinion as to the legality of paying "E. J. Montavon," now carried on the maintenance payroll as "utility man," whom the auditor says has succeeded E. J. Williams as stenographer and clerk at the cemetery office. The auditor claims that he did not discover until yesterday that the E. J. Williams and E. Montavon referred to were young women stenographers instead of "utility men" as indicated by the payroll and timebook. He points out that the position of clerk to the superintendent of the cemetery has been created by council, and that Leo Krickler has been appointed and is drawing $20 a month salary for discharging the duties.

Mr. Chandler's letter to the solicitor follows:

October 2, 1923.
Hon. Sherrard M. Johnson,
City Solicitor,
Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Sir:

After complaint was filed with me this morning with reference to the payment of the cemetery payroll I have made an investigation and find the following facts: That the Ordinance of the city of Portsmouth created the position of a Clerk to the Superintendent of the Cemetery to which position Leo Krickler has been appointed and is drawing a salary of $50.00 dollars per month. The Ordinance also creates the position of Superintendent of Cemetery at a salary of One Hundred Fifty ($150.00) Dollars per month and grave diggers at a per diem basis of Three and 50-100 ($3.50) Dollars per day.

The Superintendent of the Cemetery and the Service Department has numbered the name of E. J. Williams for the payroll of August 1st, August 15th, August 31st, and Sept. 15, as a utility man and upon investigation I find that the said E. J. Williams was not a utility man but was a lady stenographer employed in the office of the Superintendent of the cemetery and false pay rolls were made as to her position.

Also on September 1st the payroll of the Cemetery and false pay-rolls were which is being questioned I find that the Superintendent has employed E. J. Montavon and vouchered the payroll through as a utility man. Upon investigation I find that the said E. J. Montavon is not a utility man but a lady employed in the office of the Superintendent of the Cemetery.

Also I find that the Superintendent has placed upon the payroll William T. Harr as foreman at a salary of Five ($5.00) Dollars per day without any authority of Council as no such position has been created.

I desire to know whether or not I shall pay the said William T. Harr at the rate of Five Dollars per day without any authority of Council, also what is the authority for the payment of the stenographer for the Superintendent of the Cemetery when he already has in his employ a clerk without any authority of Council?

20 To Enter Big Race At Latonia

LATONIA, KY., Oct. 3.—Horses to continue to arrive at Latonia for the $50,000 Kentucky special to be run on next Saturday, and from present indications a field of twenty or more will start in the big event.

Word has been received from A. C. Dostick that he is shipping Spot Cash and Shuffle Along; Sam V. Hildreth wired for three stalls and the Whitney horses are expected to day or tomorrow. Three or four cars of eastern thoroughbreds are expected before Saturday to join those already here.

Whisk Alray, winner of the race last year, qualified for the special by winning the Runnymede purse yesterday, as did Dream Maker, which won the Georgetown purse.

Cleveland And Detroit Staging Real Battle

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Detroit's victory over the White Sox yesterday and Cleveland's defeat by the Browns occasioned a revival of interest in the battle for second place in the American league.

The Tigers have a percentage of 53.9 as against 53.1 for the Indians. The ability of Dams to lighten up in the pinches, was in a great measure responsible for Detroit's 6 to 5 victory, while Vangilder's excellent pitching, coupled with heavy and timely hitting by his St. Louis team-mates, particularly in the eighth inning, enabled the Browns to down Cleveland, 10 to 5.

The Athletics drew one game nearer the Senators when Burns, a comparably new Philadelphia pitcher, held Washington to one run, while the Philadelphians collected six runs.

Only one game was scheduled in the National league, between Brooklyn and Boston. A four run Brooklyn rally in the eighth inning broke a tie score and enabled the Dodgers to triumph, 5 to 2.

Will Giants Break Record?

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—One new world's series record will result from the coming tilt between the New York Giants and Yankees, while the McGraw men will have an opportunity to create another and the Huggins clan may equal one now in the record books.

The new record is the meeting of the same clubs for the third year in succession. The nearest approach to this mark was when the Chicago Cubs and Detroit Tigers met in the series of 1907 and 1908.

If the Giants win this year it will be their third world's championship in succession, a feat no other pennant winner has ever accomplished.

In that event the Yankees also would automatically hold the record of losing three series in a row, held by the Giants and Tigers. The Giants lost in 1911 and 1913 to the Philadelphia Athletics and in 1912 to the Boston Red Sox.

Exploring Party Safe

PEACH SPRINGS, ARIZ., October 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Nearly four days behind their expected arrival at Diamond Creek trail, the ten members of a government survey party emerged from the Grand Canyon of Colorado at that point yesterday.

Because of flood waters that have been sweeping through the gorge it was feared that the small boats in which the party is making its way down the river would be dashed to pieces against the canyon walls.

Flood waters did catch them in the gorge, they related, but they escaped the fury of the river by climbing through a crevice. A courier who brought word of the party's safe arrival said that all were well.

The party is making a survey of uncharted stretches of Colorado.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautiful by darkening, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Weyl's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy soft and beautiful.

Doctor Tells How To Detect Harmful Effects Of Tobacco Try These SIMPLE TESTS

New York: Doctor Connor, formerly of Johns Hopkins Hospital, says many men who smoke, chew or snuff tobacco are suffering from progressive organic ailments. Thousands of them would never have been afflicted had it not been for the use of tobacco, and thousands would soon get well if they would only stop the use of tobacco. The chief harmful principle of tobacco is nicotine, a deadly poison which, when absorbed by the system, slowly affects the nerves, membranes, tissues and vital organs of the body. The harmful effect of tobacco varies and depends on circumstances. One will be afflicted with general debility, others with catarrh of the throat, indigestion, constipation, extreme nervousness, sleeplessness, loss of memory, lack of will power, mental confusion, etc. Others may suffer from heart disease, bronchial trouble, hardening of the arteries, tuberculosis, blindness or even cancer or the common affliction known as tobacco heart. If you use tobacco in any form you can easily detect the harmful effects by making the following simple tests: Read aloud one full page from a book. If, in the course of reading, your throat is affected by coughing and hoarseness, and you must frequently clear your throat, the chances are that your throat is affected by cancer or more serious trouble. Next, in the morning, before taking your usual smoke, walk up three flights of stairs at a regular pace, then stop. If you find

Steady Buying Of Standard Oils

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Steady buying of Standard Oils that has been conducted for some time in a quiet manner by the independent group of oil producers was looked upon in the street as significant of a change in the petroleum industry for the better. Producers were among the features in the independent group, both those stocks making further gains and those

the morning open and aggressive from the committee of business today. Many of these issues moved up from 1 to 5 points from the high levels established in Tuesday's trading. The dealings in this group were on an unusually large scale, 10,000 shares of Standard Oil of Indiana, changing hands in the trading and trading sections in many other stocks were larger in volume than had been noted in many months. This movement taken in connection with steady buying in many of the important independent	Prudhoe Oil and Gas which moved up 7 points today made the largest gain of five points today. Standard Oil of Kansas rose about 2 points and a gain of more than 2 points was made in Standard Oil of Kentucky. New York was heavily traded in advancing one point. Dealing in International Petroleum was also weak on a large scale. The gain of up more than a point, Imperial Oil of Canada, controlling International Petroleum, made a gain of two points. Business was distributed proportionately. Sell Creed Products and Mountain Pro-	was evidence of Canadian buying again in Royal Canadian Syndicate which was looked on as an indication of favorable results of development work in that company's fields. Industrials moved over a narrow range but were also in good demand. Special interest was attached to Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Co., Reading rights made a gain of 2 in crossing 25. Gillette Safety Razor held close to yesterday's final price. In the mining group there was continued interest in Crown King which made a fractional advance.

Carload Of Beer Found
CLEVELAND, O., October 3.—(By the Associated Press.)—A car load of beer supposed to be real prohibition beer was in the custody of federal prohibition agent Charles Burns today. The beer—140 kegs—was seized by Burns and his agents early today in a box car on the Nickel Plate railroad tracks.
Burns said it is identical with another car load shipment seized last week and poured out in the Erie railroad yard. The new car load, like the other, was billed to the Clark Manufacturing Company, Cleveland, from the Pennsylvania Specialty Com-

Weekly Hardware Summary
NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Hardware Age in its weekly market summary will say tomorrow:
"September sales in the hardware markets are estimated to have been about on an average of 25 per cent ahead of sales for the same period of last year.
"Current demands in the hardware markets are strengthening although retailers continue to order goods in small quantities. Deliveries from manufacturers to jobbers steadily improve, but jobbers still complain about difficulties in getting many items, principally tools and other staples.
"Farmers are said to be buying heavily in the agricultural stores than they have for some time. Credit conditions are improving.
"The price situation remains more or less firm. Jobbers are making numerous individual house changes but few important major price movements are being made or are expected in the near future. Spring goods, such as garden tools, rubber hose, lawn mowers, etc., are expected to be slightly higher next year than they were this year because of increased manufacturing costs."

shipped in containers and labeled "oil." Burns' investigation last week disclosed that there were no such companies.
Nickel Plate Railroad police this morning posted guards over the car until the contents could be tested.
Last week's car tested 3 1/2 per cent alcoholic content, according to the city chemist. If today's seizure is as high, Burns said, it will be destroyed. Its estimated value is $12,000.

Coolidge Emphasizes Necessity For Protection To Industry

DENVER, COLO., October 3.—(By the Associated Press)—President Calvin Coolidge, in a message read at the opening session of the Western Trade Congress here today, declared "the obvious necessity for maintaining a proper measure of protection to American industry and production in the face of chaotic industrial conditions following the war has unquestionably brought us nearer to a national solidarity on this issue."

Discussion of public tariff policies as they affect the progress and prosperity of the west; adoption of a plan to remove the tariff from partisan party politics; voicing opposition to revision of the present tariff act at this time and organization of a national tariff association and other subjects of the meeting.

The president's message said in part:

"I think it can fairly be said that there has never been a period in our country's history when so little of our country's interest entered in the consideration of this question. The obvious necessity for maintaining a proper measure of protection to American industry and production in the face of chaotic industrial conditions following the war has unquestionably brought us nearer to a national solidarity on this issue."

Former Governor E. M. Ammons, of Colorado, president at the opening meeting. Addresses were made by Frank J. Hagenbarth, of Salt Lake City, president of the association; John M. Parker, of Louisiana; John A. Kirby, president of the Southern Tariff Association and others.

Dr. Brewbaker, Noted Sunday School Worker At the U. B. Church Next Sunday

Dr. Charles W. Brewbaker, international known Sunday School worker, will spend a full day at the United Brethren church and Sunday School on Rally Day, Sunday, October 7.

McCray Center Continue Probe Of Woman's Mysterious Death

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., October 3.—(By the Associated Press)—Differences between state Republican leaders, resulting from the inquiry into Governor McCray's financial affairs by the party's state committee, were eliminated yesterday by statements from John Moorman, who denounced the investigation as a political move, instigated by President Coolidge, and by Governor James Goodrich, who denied Moorman's charge with the added assertion that the governor had been accused of serious offenses.

Mr. Moorman, who is Governor McCray's political adviser, declared the investigation had been ordered by the president as a representation of Mr. Goodrich that McCray's failure as a farmer, would seriously hamper the prospects of the Republican party among the farmer voters.

Mr. Goodrich termed the statement of Mr. Moorman as "absolutely false" and without the slightest foundation. The meeting was called, he said, after charges had been made by responsible men, thoroughly familiar with the executive's affairs that the governor had been guilty of actions involving the most serious consequences.

Governor McCray denied all responsibility for the statement of John Moorman, his political adviser.

BLAIR AND KEITH READY FOR GRUELLING BATTLE FRIDAY NIGHT

When Nig Blair faces Phil Keith at Millbrook pavilion in the ten round main go Friday evening, he will have one of the toughest scraps of his career. Keith is an old hand at the boxing game and is a mighty slugger as well as a finished boxer. He had the Panther all but out in their recent bout in Cincinnati when he caught the local star flush on the button with a vicious left hook. Nig came back strong however, after taking the count of nine and almost reversed matters in the sixth round. Local fans who saw the bout were eager to have the two boys matched again. It is bound to be a bout with plenty of real action.

Butch White says he is going to put the sleeper on Jack Titus in the semi-final and even up matters with the Springfield entry. Both boys like to mix and something will happen sure if they box to their usual styles.

The Alexander-Pilsen bout is for the bantam championship of the city. Pilsen is a powerful little fellow and hits like a welter. George had better be careful.

Doc Price, who has been training faithfully for several weeks is in good shape and ready for his six round bout with Freddie Oeschler of Cincinnati. Oeschler is considered a pretty tough youngster and has been making lots of the Queen City boxers kiss the canvas. The card as a whole has all the earmarks of being one in which there will be lots of gloves thrown and K. O.'s may be expected.

There are still many choice bouts left at the Smoke House although the fans have been gobbling them up very rapidly the past few days. This will be the last open-air show of the season.
